For Week Ending July 15, 2017

Publish Date: July 24, 2017 • All comparisons are to 2016

The primary selling season tends to begin a subtle slowdown at this point in the year. That does not necessarily equate to less competition for available housing stock. While total sales and inventory may be lower than at points earlier in the year, those still looking for homes tend to match up with those willing to list. Call it a back-to-school effect or call it an active and healthy residential real estate market no matter the season.

In the Twin Cities region, for the week ending July 15:

- New Listings increased 2.2% to 1,936
- Pending Sales decreased 3.9% to 1,371
